

Caring Thoughts

Issue 11

09/19/16

September Summer.

Wow! It is hard to believe that the summer is coming to a close! However, the weather seems to have other plans with temperatures remaining in the 80's!

September was a busy but extremely rewarding month for us. We got to celebrate Steve's first birthday with a big Mickey Mouse Birthday Party, Went on a camping trip with a group of great friends from our church, and myself and oldest daughter Isabelle attended the PA Archery Festival. It is amazing to see our children at such different stages!

As in previous months we will keep the newsletter brief so you can get back to enjoying that last few days of Summer.

In this issue we introduce our new online memorial store and talk about pet cremation options.

Until next month.....

Warmest Regards,

Corey Strauch

THE PENNSYLVANIA
CREMATION SERVICES, LLC
SIMPLE & DIGNIFIED

Our NEW Online Store is open!

The store allows families to choose an appropriate urn, keepsake, memorial or jewelry item; have it engraved and shipped, FREE, either to a home address or to our facility.

Some families find that they wish to choose a different container for the ashes than the one that was included in the initial order, or a person may want to distribute a small portion of the ashes in a keepsake urn. Whatever the reason, our new store allows you to make your selection in the comfort of your own home.

You can find the store by visiting any page of our website and "Clicking" the Urns tab of the top menu. Or you can go directly to:

Pet Cremation

----While we do not offer pet cremation we are often asked questions about it or for recommendations on who to use. Because of this we felt it was a good idea to include some basic information.----

The death of a pet can often be just as difficult a loss as any close loved one. And the choice of what to do with the remains is just as personal of a choice.

Grief

Whichever path you choose when laying your pets remains to rest, don't be surprised if you experience some loss or grief. Take a few moments to talk about your memories of the pet with fellow family members. This will help the grieving process begin. Talking about the pet will be especially important if there are children in the home, having a memorial service and encouraging your child to draw a picture or note for the pet may help them in the process. The ASPCA has some thoughtful tips on helping your children when a family pet dies.

Pet Cremation

For pet crematories in your area you can call us or do a simple search online for Pet Cremation. This should lend a number of local options. The attendant will prepare the remains of your pet individually, and have the remains placed in a bag in a simple cardboard box or tin so that you can place them in an urn or scatter them. There are a lot of options out there for pet urns from the simple to ornate and in varying sizes from a small locket for fish remains to a large urn for a horse.

Pet Cemeteries

If you live in an apartment or rental, a backyard pet burial might not be an option. There is more than likely a pet cemetery within driving distance if not close by. Pet cemeteries can facilitate a burial plot for a fee usually with an extra annual care fee to keep up the plot.

Your Choice

Deciding what path you choose, to remember your pet is important for the grieving process. If the options feel overwhelming don't be timid about asking a friend or family member to help you along the way, don't let this be a lonely process. Harvest memories along the way and when you have given enough time, don't be afraid to welcome another pet into your life.
