A Year in Review

Wow the holiday bustle is settling down and the New year is quickly getting started. I am thankful for so much in 2015 I wanted to share those experiences with you. Here is a recap of our 2015.

My wife and I attended the Pennsylvania Hospice Network Convention in the Hersey Harrisburg area. Ari and I had a table and were educating Hospice professionals of the choices that families have between traditional funeral homes and a cremation specific services like ours. We met a number of wonderful hospice professionals and forged many lasting relationships.

Next I attended and presented at an educational mini series "Conversations on End-of-Life Decisions" put on by Personal Advocates and the Emmaus Moravian Church. I was able to answer lots of questions regarding cremation and pre-planning. I would like to thank Kay Oswalt for the invitation.

Through out the year I was able to visit with hospice and nursing facilities to introduce myself and inform them of Pennsylvania Cremation Services.

We held our first Lunch and Learn Seminar in November where we hosted about 15 people at the Olive Garden in Dickson City, PA. I was able to share about our services and help answer various questions that the folks had. We all enjoyed a meal and friendly conversation.

What year recap would be complete with out some selfish talk about our son Stevie who we welcomed into the world September 3, 2015. He has brought so much brightness and love into our house. He is now 4 months eating cereal, rolling, laughing, cooing and just being the delight of Mom and Dad.

Lastly I would like to take this time to thank each and everyone of the hundreds of families that we have be able to assist this past year I pray that the new year find you growing in strength and better able to look upon your loved ones memories and cherish them.

Looking forward to the rest of 2016!

Regards,

Corey Strauch

through unique, post-cremation memorial spaceflights.

Their heritage encompasses over 30 years of global leadership in private sector space missions and applications including:

- the first ever private launch into outer space (1982),
- the first private, post-cremation memorial spaceflight (1997),
- the first lunar burial (1999)

Celestis Memorial Spaceflights place a symbolic portion of cremated remains into Earth orbit, onto the lunar surface, and into deep space. Missions into space that return the cremated remains to Earth are also available. Your loved one will venture into space as part of a real space mission, riding alongside a commercial or scientific satellite.

Memorial Spaceflights are made possible through agreements with leading providers of commercial space launch services. All services include a performance assurance guarantee.

The process is simple and completed with the utmost respect and care. A portion of cremated remains is carefully placed inside a permanently sealed, individual flight container, loaded into the Celestis, Inc. spacecraft and attached to the launch vehicle.

On launch day families gather at the liftoff site to share the experience of seeing their loved ones' dreams of spaceflight realized. With a roar and a fiery streak across the sky, the rocket lifts its precious load higher and higher into the peaceful solitude of space.

Memories of the flight participants' lives are shared among friends and family at the pre-launch memorial service and preserved on the keepsake video or DVD (included in the service), and biographical section of their Web site.

After a successful launch, Celestis provides a professionally produced videotape or DVD of the entire event to the participant's family or designee.
