Ideas and GOALS.

It's that time again! Time to gather notebooks, pens, binders, folder, backpacks and the current style of clothing. Having three teenage girls in the house ( and a son on the way) I can assure you that we have our fair share of squabbles that follow when one's pair of pants ends up in the other one's possession. My favorite item to grab when I'm at the office supply store is a notebook. I have Moleskin, Yoobi, Cashier notebooks, composition books, 2 & 3 Column account note books, pocket sized legal size and shorty pads. Ask my kids and they'll tell ya I have a notebook addiction.

I buy these notebooks for the grand purpose of writing goals daily to keep track of tasks and new business ideas. I sit about an hour each day 30 minutes in the morning and 30 minutes at night to jot down my thoughts, to give myself some direction, and to review what happened that day. The reality is that these note books often sit empty, not because I don't "Try" to put my thoughts and goals on paper, but because I don't make it a priority. Putting it in writing makes it REAL. REAL means that I have to figure out how to make them happen. Therein lies the issue.

Well lets step back. I do have Goals, but a GOAL without a plan is a Idea, so really, I have a lot of Ideas. Ideas are the fun part, the planning is what takes work!

And so it is with pre-planning. We talk to hundreds of folks who say I want to pre-plan my services and ease my family of the burden of having to make and pay for my final expenses. However, the reality is that many of them don't actually complete the task. The idea may be there but the goal of actually planning is a tough one. Here is my promise to you. I will walk you through every step of the way to see your IDEA become a completed GOAL.

Sincerely,

Corey Strauch
Helping families one GOAL at a time.

design and manufacture, the urn provides proper germination and later growth of the tree, based on a person or pet's ashes. In this way, death becomes a transformation and return to life by means of nature.

Who created it?

Urna Bios was an idea from designer Gerard Moliné, introduced in the year 1997. Later on, in the year 2002, Urna Bios won the ADI FAD medal, and in the year 2005, it was a Top Nominee for the INDEX Award and Premio Expohogar Regalo (Exhihome Gift Award). After several years, and with Roger Moliné joining the team, Urna Bios has become a start-up project that, as of today, has distributed Urna Bios to more than 7,000 people the world over, with more than 28 distributors in several countries, such as the United States, South Africa and Europe.

What is the purpose of Bios Urn?

The intent of Urna Bios is to offer users an alternative for remembering deceased persons in a natural, sustainable fashion, thereby turning the "death" process into regeneration and return to life by means of nature. Their company objective is none other than to offer a economic, ecological and sustainable product that falls in line with their group's philosophy.

What type of seeds can I use with Bios Urn?

You can use any seed. In fact, they recommend that you consult with an expert to find out what type of tree and in which area you should plant your tree. They currently distribute these seeds: Cypress, Beech, Gingko, Oak, Maple, Oak , Ash and Pine.
